Concord's favorite trade show returns on April 16

On Tuesday, April 16, companies from across the Greater Concord region will showcase their products and services at the 33rd Annual Business Showcase. This vibrant trade show, hosted by the Chamber, is made possible by the generous support of our sponsors. We extend our heartfelt gratitude to our Premiere Sponsors, Merrimack County Savings Bank, Breezeline, and CheckmateHCM. We also extend our appreciation to our Supporting Sponsors, Taylor Rental Concord and Duprey Hospitality, LLC. This event brings together nearly 250 professionals in a lively, fun atmosphere that's ideal for networking with clients, connecting with job candidates, or meeting up with old friends and peers.

"Business Showcase has been a Chamber tradition for 32 years," said Greater Concord Chamber of Commerce President, Tim Sink. "As one of the largest Chambers in the state, we're proud to draw businesses from so many unique industries, but keep the friendly atmosphere that our exhibitors love." The Chamber anticipates more than 75 exhibitors will participate in the event, with booths representing IT services, skincare products, event and meeting rental spaces, video production, mental health services, and much more.

Exhibitors can anticipate meeting hundreds of attendees at the event, with robust marketing efforts drawing area professionals, job seekers, and active community members to the trade show. Media sponsors include Binnie Media, Concord Monitor, NH Business Review, Tiffany Eddy Media, Precision Entertainment, and Christine Louise Publications, LLC, with additional radio spots provided by WKXL. Event door prizes are always a hit with attendees, enticing locals to bring friends and colleagues to the trade show. DJ Nazy will announce winners throughout the duration of the event.

As always, attendees can look forward to samples of delicious appetizers and treats from generous hospitality sponsors, including 110 Grill, Catering by Design, Maddy's Food Hub, New Hampshire Doughnut Company, Pours & Petals Events, Tropical Smoothie Café, and Twelve 31 Café and Catering. "The Annual Business Showcase is certainly something we look forward to each year. It's a great way to connect with new and old friends," said Michael and Melissa Dolpies of Twelve 31. "As a hospitality sponsor, this event is the perfect way for us to meet and greet while sharing something to eat. All of the Chamber staff do a superb job, from planning to executing. It's a first-rate experience."

"As a hospitality sponsor, this event is the perfect way for us to meet and greet while sharing something to eat. ... It's a first-rate experience."

— Michael and Melissa Dolpies, Twelve 31 Café and Catering

All are invited to enjoy the fun at the Chamber's biggest networking event of the year! Business Showcase takes place on Tuesday, April 16 from 3-6 p.m. at the Grappone Conference Center in Concord. Booths are available exclusively for Chamber members, and are $275 or $300 with electricity. General admission tickets are $10. Learn more and sign up at concordnhchamber.com.

Advocacy

A monthly update from our Local and State Government Affairs Committees

Did you know the Chamber has two separate committees that work on public policy advocacy on your behalf? The Local Government Affairs Committee is chaired by Board Member and former Mayor, Jim Bouley. This committee pays attention to what is happening in City of Concord government, and follows issues that impact the local business community. The State Government Affairs Committee is chaired by Board Member Jim Doremus, and receives legislative tracking support from Business & Industry Association of NH Vice President, David Juvet. This committee follows what is happening in the State Legislature, tracks bills that could affect your business, and works to maintain open communications with elected officials. Both of these committees are populated by interested Chamber members, and any Chamber member is welcome to participate. (And you don't have to be a policy expert!) Our goal is to provide a voice for business at both the local and state legislative levels.

If you are interested in joining one of these committees, contact Chamber President, Tim Sink at (603) 224-2508 or tsink@concordnhchamber.com, and he will put you on the distribution list. The State Government Affairs Committee meets the first Wednesday of the month at 8 a.m. at the Chamber Office. The Local Government Affairs Committee meets on the second Tuesday of the month at 8:30 a.m. at the Chamber Office. The information sharing is great, and the coffee is on us!

Get on the map!

Our popular Map & Guide will direct visitors to your business. 30,000 copies are printed and distributed to hotels, restaurants, attractions and welcome centers throughout the state, as well as the Manchester-Boston Regional Airport. Take advantage of year-round exposure in this premiere map of the city of Concord. Ad space is exclusively available to Chamber members.

Contact Gabriel Szczepanik by March 29 to reserve your ad space. He can be reached at membership@concordnhchamber.com or (603) 224-2508 to reserve your ad. See ad prices and learn more at concordnhchamber.com/map-and-guide.

Diversity, Equity, & Inclusion

A monthly update for Greater Concord professionals

March is gender equality month, and also includes the recognition of Equal Pay Day for women on the 12th. This day adjusts year-to-year, because it indicates how far into the year the average (median) woman must work in order to earn what the average (median) man earned the entire previous year (2023). This day brings to light the reality of gender pay gaps in the U.S., which are also reflected in state data. In New Hampshire, the average full-time working woman earns 76 cents for every dollar earned by men; this is a wider gap than the 84 cent national average.

Several other Equal Pay Days are recognized nationally; each date is determined by census data on income for that group. LGBTQIA+ Equal Pay Day will be acknowledged on June 13, Black Women's Equal Pay Day is on July 9, Latina Equal Pay Day is on October 3, and Native Women's Equal Pay Day is on November 21. The dates that appear later in the year reflect the intersectionality of pay gaps. For example, the average (median) salaries of BIPOC women are less than the average (median) salary of all women in the U.S. This shows how factors beyond gender identity make a huge impact on a worker's wages. BUSINESS FOCUS: Achieving greater sustainability by adopting more efficient energy cycles

By Tony Giunta, PG, Director of Project Development, Nobis Group

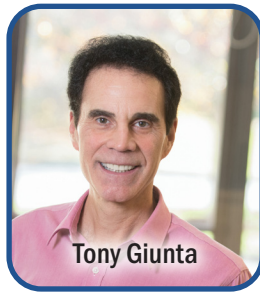

It's only natural to assume that humans will consume the earth's natural resources in a sustainable manner. After all, if we fail to live sustainably, our species will perish. New Englanders have long understood and practiced this.

In fact, New Englanders have for a long time inherited the reputation of being a very "frugal" bunch. Having been born and raised in this part of the country, I can attest to the fact that we "Yankees" can always find a way to stretch life's necessities. I truly believe this comes from our early history, where one either learned how to sustain food, water, shelter, and even energy—or you didn't survive the winter! Death, it appears, was an effective incentive for ingenuity when it came to preserving and sustaining resources.

Today, technology provides us with a near-inexhaustible supply of life-sustaining commodities. So much so, that we no longer give thought during our daily lives that wasting our natural resources could result in our demise. So how do we become more sustainable? One way is to consume resources as close to their source location as possible. Although it's a simple, reasonable, and completely achievable concept, this solution is grossly ignored around the world.

As silly as it may seem, it's commonplace for raw materials to be shipped thousands of miles only to see manufactured products made from these resources shipped right back to their original points of origin. As a result, enormous amounts of our limited energy supplies are consumed during transit alone.

One example close to home is liquified natural gas (LNG). Because of constrained pipeline capacity during times of heavy consumption, Boston receives LNG shipments from Tobago and Trinidad. At the same time, shipments of the same product are transported from Louisiana to Europe and Asia. The finite fossil fuel resources consumed to power those gigantic LNG transport ships, only to deliver LNG, are staggering. Enormous amounts of energy could be sustainably preserved if we globally prioritized utilizing energy sources and related raw materials based on their proximity to the user.

Our worldwide energy demands are continuing to rise, and, ironically, adding to this, is our commitment to build a new generation of renewable energy sources and networks globally. But we need to be just as committed to eliminating our wasteful energy practices at the same time.

At Nobis Group, we are committed to moving our world towards a more sustainable energy future. Over the past decade, remaining steadfast to this commitment has resulted in Nobis having permitted more solar projects than any other firm in New Hampshire. We strive to create a society that is more reliant on limitless energy supplies, like solar and wind power, and less reliant on finite energy sources such as crude oil, coal, and natural gas.

Tony's relentless desire to help clients accomplish their dream projects, and his ability to match Nobis' people and services to his client's needs is why Tony was chosen as Director of Project Development at Nobis. As Director, he works with Nobis' marketing team to implement the business development plan and develop relationships that will strengthen Nobis' position within targeted market sectors. Tony's personal mission is to create partnerships with clients, dedicating himself to ensuring that both their confidence and trust are built in Nobis by providing guidance and solutions that ultimately achieve their goals.

Nobis Group® is a cohesive team of over 75 professionals with expertise in engineering and science. As active participants in the communities where we live and work, they are committed to creating safer, healthier, and more viable environments.

DRIVEN By PEOPLE

BUSINESS FOCUS: Storytelling saves lives

By Kristen Welch, CFRE, Director of Development, NAMI New Hampshire

On May 15, 2024, a cast of brave performers will take up the Bank of New Hampshire Stage and share their personal stories of overcoming mental illness, suicide, and substance use disorder in This Is My Brave, benefiting NAMI New Hampshire. The goal of this production is to raise awareness of mental illness, suicide, and substance use disorders, dispel the stigma and discrimination surrounding these conditions, and raise funds to help NAMI New Hampshire continue to provide free support, education, and advocacy statewide.

This Is My Brave is the leading platform for individuals to share their stories of hope, recovery, and success while living with a mental health or substance use disorder. This Is My Brave—The Show is a live presentation of moving essays, poetry, music, and more, performed by individuals who have been impacted by mental illness, suicide, or substance use disorder. The mission of This Is My Brave is to empower individuals to share their stories—stories of hope, empowerment, and honesty—to end the stigma surrounding these conditions and encourage those still living in silence to seek support. Through uplifting real stories and local voices, this event is a testament to the strength of our community to come together, end the silence, and tackle the issues that matter most.

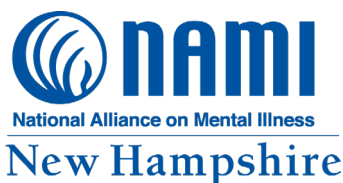

Now more than ever, New Hampshire needs to take action to support mental health. One in five U.S. adults experience a mental illness each year. A March 2023 report by the Kaiser Family Foundation found that 90% of U.S. adults believe the country is facing a mental health crisis. The American Psychological Association, the American Academy of Pediatrics, and the US Surgeon General have all declared that our youth are facing a mental health emergency. Despite these dire statistics, many Granite Staters struggle to get the help they need, when and where they need it. Education, stigma, and discrimination play a key role in an individual's ability and willingness to receive treatment. When we share our stories, we create a ripple effect of hope and support that could save lives. NAMI New Hampshire's production of This Is My Brave aims to use storytelling and the arts to educate the community, dispel stigma, and amplify the voices of those affected by mental health, suicide, and substance use disorders.

This Is My Brave is a powerful opportunity for our entire community to come together and raise our voices to empower and inspire. You can help us build a brave community to spread mental health awareness and eliminate stigma and discrimination by sponsoring the show, attending the performance, or making a donation. The funds raised from This Is My Brave will stay in the state, helping NAMI New Hampshire continue to provide help and hope to all who need it. Join us in our mission to make a difference, one story at a time.

Kristen Welch, CFRE, is the Director of Development at NAMI New Hampshire (National Alliance on Mental Illness). Her career in fundraising for mental health and suicide prevention spans over 20 years, and she is passionate about raising awareness and decreasing stigma and discrimination. Kristen serves as Immediate Past President of the Association of Fundraising Professionals—Northern New England and on the board of the NH & VT Council of Charitable Gift Planners.

NAMI New Hampshire is a grassroots organization working to improve the quality of life for all by providing free support, education and advocacy for people affected by mental illness and suicide. To sponsor This Is My Brave, contact us at timbnh@naminh.org.
